

Abiotic and biotic electron-routing memories constrain redox-resilience trajectories

Datasets operationalize buffering capacity, hydrological connectivity, kinetic asymmetry, microbial routing, root amplification, freeze-thaw redox hysteresis, oxygen-memory denitrification, abiotic rewetting chemistry, mineral electron buffering and permafrost Fe–C redox transition

